Fernet-Branca: Earned Greatness

Giorgio Chiellini x Manu Ginóbili: A Conversation Between Legends

A Moment in Time

The 2026 FIFA World Cup in North America is more than a tournament—it's a cultural convergence. Amidst the grandeur, we seek a space for deeper reflection.

Fernet-Branca

Founded in 1845, Fernet-Branca is quintessentially Italian. Its bitter, complex profile speaks of endurance and a heritage earned over generations.

Nowhere has its impact been greater than in Argentina, where it is a part of everyday life.

More than a beverage, it's a ritual—a cherished memory, a symbol of identity.

It is this shared ritual that transforms Fernet-Branca from bottle to cultural bond, one that bring us together at the world's greatest sporting event — the World Cup.

Why We Are Here

Meaning Over Visibility

This is not about fleeting attention, but about profound connection.

Shared Craft & Character

Two careers defined by discipline and artistry, mirroring Fernet-Branca's values.

Honoring Legacies

A tribute to the indelible marks you've left on the world of sport and beyond.

Two Paths, One Ethos

Greatness Without Spectacle

Excellence that proves itself through results, not theatrics.

Heritage & National Duty

Representing one's nation is a responsibility, not just an honor.

Relentless Preparation

Winning is built in repetition, discipline, and sacrifice.

Giorgio Chiellini

"King Kong": An old-school defender, uncompromising and true. An Italian legend and now a leader at LAFC, Chiellini embodies the bridge between European football heritage and its growing North American footprint.

Manu Ginóbili

"The Magician": A fearless yet selfless player who won on his terms. An Argentine icon with deep Italian roots and passion for soccer, Ginóbili is the perfect union between European and North and South American sports.

The Conversation

A filmed one-on-one conversation. Not an interview, but a genuine dialogue between peers. Shot in an intimate bar space under cinematic light, allowing their words to resonate on:

- Winning & Greatness
- Heritage & International Impact
- Discipline & Legacy

The Spirit

Fernet-Branca lives in the moment—poured, passed, and thrown back.

In the U.S., it's become a ritual of its own: a beer and a shot, an end of shift, a start of something.

A shared language among strangers, a constant in unpredictable nights.

The Invitation

We would be honored to create this meaningful conversation with you. No hard sell, only profound respect —and the potential creation of something truly enduring.
